

You can read full-text content of Fertility and Sterility at fertstert.org via the ASRM website, but anyone who wants access to mobile apps must register on fertstert.org and create a new username and password in order to claim online access, which includes mobile products for iPad, iPhone, and Android as well as website use. Access to abstracts and full-text content on the Fertility and Sterility iPad app is only available to member subscribers and other individual subscribers.

On the “Login or Register a New Account” page at fertstert.org, please note that your ASRM log-in details will not work. This is a page connected to Elsevier, the publisher of F&S who also maintains the website and created the iPad app. To access the full content, you will need to enter your ASRM member number on the first visit. Your membership number will then be recognized through your password for future visits to the website or mobile apps.

Below is a walk-through of some instructions that might be helpful.
